Weak Children

A Sickly Child Made Strong.
We know you will be greatly interested in this testimonial. It tells you how you can make your sickly child robust and hearty.
Mrs. A. Lawrence, of Bowden, South Australia, sends us this picture of her child, with the following letter:

"My child, now four years old, was always delicate, and medicine did him no good. A friend told me to try

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

I did so, and you would have been astonished to notice the prompt change. All my friends say it was simply wonderful. Only four bottles made my weak and sickly child strong and healthy. I want to urge all mothers who have delicate children to try this tonic."

Ayer's Pills are the best liver pills you can buy. They cure constipation, biliousness.

CHOLGOZ PAYS PENALTY

WAS ELECTROCUTED EARLY ON OCTOBER 25

Autopsy Given No Evidence of a Disorder—Body is Placed in an Unmarked Grave.

AT HONOLULU, N. Y., October 25.—At 1:12 p.m. today this morning Leon Chol-goz, murderer of President William McKinley, paid the extreme penalty exact by the law for his crime. He was shocked to death by 1700 volts of electricity. He went to the chair in exactly the same manner as have the majority of murderers in this State, showing no particular sign of fear, but, in fact, doing what few of them have done—talking to the witnesses while he was being strapped in the chair.

Cholgoz retired last night at 10 o'clock and slept so soundly that when Warden Mead went to the cell shortly before 5 o'clock this morning the guard inside had to shake Cholgoz to awaken him. He sat up on the edge of his cot and made no reply to the warden's greeting of "Good morning."

The prison official took from his pocket the death warrant and read it slowly and distinctly to the assassin.
Cholgoz raised his eyes during the perfunctory ceremony.

Just as the warden stepped away from the cell door Cholgoz called to him and said: "I would like to talk with the superintendent."

The warden responded: "He will be down presently."

Then the condemned man rolled over on his cot apparently anxious to sleep again.

At 5:15, however, the guard brought to him a pair of dark trousers, with the left leg still so as to allow the free application of the electrode, and a light gray outing shirt. He was told to get up and put these on, which he did.

Contrary to the usual custom he was given a new pair of shoes. When dressed he lay down on the cot again, and in this attitude Superintendent Collins found him at 5:30, when he went down to visit him. The superintendent stood in front of the steel bars and when the guard had called Cholgoz's attention, he said: "I want to make a statement before you kill me."

"What do you wish to say, Cholgoz?" asked the superintendent.

"I want to make it when there are a lot of people present. I want them to hear me," said the prisoner.

"Well, you cannot," said the superintendent.

"Then I won't talk at all," said the prisoner, sulkily.

After the superintendent had left the guard brought Cholgoz's breakfast, consisting of coffee, toast, eggs and biacon, and he ate with quite a good deal of relish. While he was partaking of this the witnesses were gathered in the offices of Warden Mead, and at 7:08 the procession passed to the death chamber, going through the long south corridor.

In the chamber, Electrician Davis and former Warden Thayer of Dannemore had arranged the chair, placing a bank of twenty-two incandescent lights across the arms and connecting the electrode wires at each end. The witnesses were ordered seated and the Warden Mead briefly addressed them, saying: "You are here to witness the legal death of Leon F. Cholgoz. I declare that you keep your seats and preserve absolute silence in the death chamber no matter what may transpire."

Cholgoz entered the death chamber surrounded by four guards. He was intensely pale, and as he tried to throw his head back and carry himself erect his chin quivered perceptibly. As he was being seated he looked about at the assembled witnesses with quite a steady stare, and said: "I killed the President because he was an enemy of the good people—the working people." His voice trembled slightly at first, but gained strength with each word. And he spoke in perfect English.

"I am not sorry for my crime," he said loudly, just as the guard pushed his head back on the rubber head-rest and drew the strap across his forehead and chin. As the pressure on the straps tightened and bound the jaws tightly he mumbled, "I am awfully sorry I could not see my father."

When the strapping was completed and the guards stepped back, Warden Mead raised his hand and at 7:12:30 Electrician Davis turned the switch that threw 17000 volts of electricity into the living body. The rush of the current threw the body so hard against the straps that they creaked perceptibly.
The hands clinched suddenly and the whole attitude was one of extreme tension. For several seconds the full current was kept on and then slowly the electrician threw the switch back, reducing the current volt by volt until it was cut off entirely. Then just as it had reached that point he threw the lever back again for two or three seconds.

The body, which had collapsed as the current was reduced, stiffened up again against the straps. When it was turned off again Dr. McDonald stepped to the chair and put his hand over the heart.

He said he felt no pulsation, but suggested that the current be turned on for a few seconds again. Once more the body became rigid. At 7:15 the current was turned off for good. The physicians present used the stethoscope and other tests to determine if any life remained, and at 7:17 the warden raising his hand announced: "Gentlemen, the prisoner is dead."

After the autopsy the body was placed in a black-stained pine coffin, every portion of the anatomy being replaced under the supervision of Dr.
Gerin and Warden Mead. Shortly afterward it was removed to the prison cemetery and all extraordinary precautions taken to completely destroy it.
A carboy of acid was obtained and poured upon the body in the coffin after it had been lowered into the grave. Straw was used in the four corners of the grave as the earth was put in to give vent to such gases as might form.

It is the belief of the physicians that the body will be entirely disintegrated within twelve hours. During the time and as long as deemed necessary a guard will be kept over the unmarked grave.

AT HONOLULU, N. Y., October 25.—The autopsy on the remains of Cholgoz was completed shortly before noon, when the surgeons issued the following brief statement:

"The autopsy was made by Edward A. Spitzka of New York, under the immediate supervision and direction of Dr. Charles F. McDonald of New York and Dr. John Gerin, prison physician. The autopsy occupied over three hours and embraced a careful examination revealed a perfectly healthy state of all the organs, including the brain.

"All of the physicians who attended the execution were present at autopsy and all concurred in the findings of the examination."

JAMES A. HUGHES, M. D.
CHARLES F. McDONALD, M. D.
J. A. SPITZKA.

A lengthy technical statement was also issued. The report concludes as follows: "No anomalies found. The brain in general is well developed, sufficiently marked with fissures, and the ventricles of normal proportion." The autopsy demonstrated to the satisfaction of the physicians that in no way was Cholgoz's mental condition, except as it might have been perverted, responsible for the crime.

CAMPBELL'S STATEMENT.

Contractor Claims That Charges Are Result of Conspiracy.

W. M. Campbell, the contractor for the improvements on the naval reservation, against whom charges have been brought for violation of the eight-hour law, believes that the charge has been made from conspiracy and makes the following statement in his own behalf.

Mr. Campbell is well known in Honolulu as an enterprising builder having contributed twenty-five of the new residences in town since his arrival here. Mr. Campbell says:

"The proceedings are simply persecution instigated by the fact that I am a contractor who have been underbid by me, and who oppose me owing to the fact that I employ Oriental labor. When I came to Honolulu I found much work going on and most of the best available white men employed. I had to take men who perhaps could not get anything to do where they came from, and on Mondays they would not be present on the job as they were perhaps drunk from the money they had received Saturday.

I began to employ Japanese and found them reliable laborers. The cost was not less than the same work should come to done by others, but the men never were absent from their posts of duty and always could be relied upon for service. The work upon which they were employed went on because of their steadiness and sobriety.

"The navy people came to me to build a watchman's cottage on the government reservation, and my figures, plans and specifications were approved at Washington. The contractors, whose bids in some cases were more than double my bids, sent walking delegates to investigate the conditions of the bids through an attorney, but were ordered off the naval premises.

"The contractors found that the men were working nine hours. They at once put on several so-called carpenters to act as spies on the workmen, peeping around the corners of buildings and under piles. This was the ground upon which they secured the indictment of myself with the sub-contractor. I was entirely ignorant that the men were breaking any law. I had no personal knowledge of the time they worked at all, and I was only anxious to carry out the work in accordance with the contract. I believe that the action against me is only instigated by labor unions, as it is a well known fact that I am opposed to such organizations as I believe they help to develop anarchistic ideas, and where I employ a man to work for me, I do so on his own merits."

A NEW METHOD.
A new method of preparing p-alkyloxybenzylamines and their homologs has been discovered, says the Journal of the Chemical Society.

"When anhydrous formaldehydeaniline is added slowly to a mixture of a phenol ether and sulfuric acid, the corresponding p-alkyloxybenzylamine is produced. By this method the author has prepared p-methoxybenzylamine, p-ethoxybenzylamine, p-methoxyben-zyl-toluidine and p-ethoxybenzyl-toluidine."
